Selected Answer: B

In a SaaS model, the application and its underlying infrastructure are managed and maintained by the service provider. This includes the responsibility for system operability, server maintenance, network security, and other infrastructure-related tasks. The service provider ensures that the application is always available, secure, and up-to-date, and handles any issues or incidents that arise. However, the organization is responsible for maintaining their own content that is displayed through the application. This includes managing user accounts, data, and configurations, and ensuring that the content is accurate, up-to-date, and compliant with relevant laws and regulations.
